

Miller Predicts False Charges By Democrats

State Committee to Publish a "Lying Advertisement" Tomorrow, He Declares, to Aid the Candidates Based on Hearst Stories

Denies Affiliation With the Traction Corporations; Discusses 8-Cent Fares

Nathan L. Miller, Republican candidate for Governor, announced last night, after winding up his campaign in this city at a series of meetings at which he denounced Governor Smith for a "surrender of his national ticket," in refusing to discuss national issues, that the Democratic State Committee was going to publish a lying advertisement Monday which he would answer then and there, as he would have no opportunity to do so after its publication.

It is filled with deliberate falsehoods," he said, in speaking of the advertisement. "These are taken for the most part from Mr. Hearst's newspapers, which now advocate Mr. Smith's election."

After quoting from earlier editorials and describing earlier cartoons, to show that Mr. Hearst formerly had opposed Governor Smith bitterly, Mr. Miller continued:

"Which the seal of a new convert Mr. Hearst is publishing falsehoods about me. He says I am the counsel of the streetcar corporation. I have never received a dollar from a streetcar corporation or from any railroad corporation. The nearest I ever came to it was when I tried a case once for a streetcar corporation, but it went into the hands of a receiver before I received my pay, and I am still out my shirt-tails."

Answers Eight-Cent Fare Charge
Saying the accusation that he was for an eight-cent fare was being repeated by the Hearst newspapers and by Governor Smith, and would be made again in the advertisement to which he referred, Mr. Miller said:

"I challenge either of them to produce anything I have ever said justifying that statement or the statement that I am for any increase. The fact, however, is that Mr. Smith's commission is for an increased fare, has done all he could to get increases and still insists that further increases are necessary."

Several times during his speech at Lafayette Hall Mr. Miller was interrupted by hecklers who demanded that he state his position in regard to the fare increase. These interruptions, he said, were part of the regular routine of the Democratic machine to make it appear that he advocated higher fares.

Judge Miller spoke at two meetings in the Bronx, all of which were attended by large audiences who approved his remarks by loud and repeated applause.

In closing a Democratic campaign speaker addressed to school teachers which declared that credit was due to Governor Smith for the increase in teachers' salaries. Judge Miller, assailed the Governor as "grossly claiming credit for what somebody else has done."

A candidate who will make such an appeal will surely claim credit which belongs to others," said Judge Miller. "A candidate who will make such an peals will betray the very group to which he appeals."

Credit for Housing Law Placed

Challenging the Democratic assertion that the credit for housing legislation at Albany was also due to Governor Smith, Judge Miller said:

"The one contribution which he made was to recommend the appointment of a commission, a favorite method of escaping responsibility. The measures which brought you relief from your acute situation were worked out, as you know, by a Republican committee of a Republican Legislature and were passed by a Republican Legislature. But the Governor says that he called the special session and forced action by centering public opinion on the Legislature."

"Yet when he called that session he made a public statement to the effect that the Lockwood committee had advised him that, as the result of their investigations, which they had continued through the summer, they were ready to make recommendations to the Legislature. They did make recommendations which were adopted and for that the Governor now seeks to appropriate the credit which he ought at least to share with the Legislature."

Again assailing what he charged was the Governor's failure to live up to his promise of cheaper milk, Judge Miller reiterated his intention, if elected, to appoint a commission to study the milk problem in order to evolve the best possible means of handling the problem in a businesslike way, without interference by the government.

"Now, I do not promise you cheaper milk," said Mr. Miller. "But I do promise you this: I promise something that has not yet been done. I promise an impartial and scientific study of the methods of transportation and distribution to see if it is not possible to improve those methods so as to eliminate needless waste and expense which now falls heavily on both producer and consumer. I promise, too, to keep that subject out of politics and to deal with it in the public interest."

5,000 Cuban Soldiers Ordered to Guard Polls

Infantry Sent to Santa Clara, Regarded as Danger Point in Presidential Election

HAVANA, Oct. 30.—Four companies of Cuban infantry have been sent to the province of Santa Clara, which is regarded as the danger spot in Monday's Presidential election. Reports from that province indicate that factional feeling is running high, and fears are expressed by some leaders that troops might be needed to put down trouble before the polls open.

Five thousand soldiers, or approximately one-third of the Cuban army, began moving to-night, having been ordered out for election duty in all of the six provinces. Reserves will be in readiness at important points for any emergency. The general impression is that there will be many local disturbances, but no serious clash is looked for.

The Liberals, under General Jose Miguel Gomez, have filed additional evidence with the American Legation of alleged intimidation and fraud on the part of the government. They charge that the coalition party is planning to steal the election and declare that should the Governor party be defeated abundant proof of fraud will be submitted to the United States government with a formal plea that the election be annulled and a second election held under American supervision.
